

Paris Diplomats
Puzzled By New
French Premier

By PRESTON GROVER
PARIS (AP) — Pierre Mendes-France came into office as premier to the great surprise of Americans here, and they don't know quite what to make of him.
Almost none of the top figures in the American embassy had ever talked seriously to him. They knew about him at second hand, as did many French and American businessmen here. But until he actually was voted in as premier Friday few could believe it was going to happen.
May Be Good Thing
The surprise has called for a "reappraisal."
"We may find it is a good thing, after all," one American diplomat said.
The explanation is this: Mendes-France promised in winning Assembly support he would get a cease-fire in Indochina by July 20 or get out of office. That puts a big burden on him and his new team in negotiating with the Communists in Geneva. It has one disadvantage. The Communists may try to hold off until the end of the month's time the premier allowed, in the hope that he will accept poor terms just to stay in office.

Nation Loses Millions
One strange problem arises with the new premier's determination to end the war in Indochina quickly. By stopping the war, he will be killing—or crippling—the goose that lays golden eggs for France, even though the country will bless him if he does it.

The United States has been contributing more than three-quarters of a billion dollars a year to help finance the war in Indochina. France spends it for supplies and for pay to Indochinese soldiers.

Of the 785 million dollars allotted France for Indochina in 1953-54, France has received so far only 88 millions because the U. S. Treasury demands complicated receipts and proofs of purchase before shelling out the money.

Truman Taken
Sick At Show

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Illness prevented Harry S. Truman from filling a guest spot in the musical show "Call Me Madam" Friday night but the former president was reported feeling better today.

Attending an opening night performance at Kansas City's Starlight Theater, Truman complained of feeling weak and of a sharp pain in the side. He left the theater before the end of the first act and was driven home by Mrs. Truman.

Later, Mrs. Truman said her husband had suffered a severe attack of indigestion.

"He is feeling much better now and is sitting in his room," she said. "Probably part of the trouble was brought on by the heat."

The weather for the performance at the outdoor theater was hot and humid, after a daytime high of 95 degrees.

The former chief executive's name is mentioned often in the Irving Berlin musical based on the career of Perle Mesta, famed Washington hostess and former ambassador to Luxembourg.

Truman had agreed to appear on stage near the end of the final act. Usually an actor who resembles the former president walks on stage for about 15 seconds.

MIGHTY STURGEON—"We thought for a while that we had caught a sea serpent. There seemed to be no end to it," said the elder of the fishing firm, Lester & Sons, of Vans Harbor, concerning the sturgeon they found tangled up in their pond nets about 17 miles from port. Friday noon. Shown hanging up in the company fish house with Mr. Lester giving it his rapt attention, is the catch. It was 7 feet five inches in length and weighed 179 pounds.

President Suggests
Talks With France
On Critical Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — To a level French-American talks on Indochina, European defense, and other critical issues appeared possible today as a follow-up to the Eisenhower - Churchill meeting opening here next week.

This prospect was brought out Friday in a letter sent by President Eisenhower to French President Rene Coty and made public by the White House.

Eisenhower, noting he would be meeting informally with Prime Minister Churchill and British Foreign Secretary Eden the weekend of June 25, told Coty he looked forward "to resuming with the government of France such intimate conversations as I have had in the past."

Time Running Out
The letter was regarded by diplomats as a gesture of friendship and reassurance by the American leader in advance of a meeting in which the French will not participate, and at a time when the government of France had come into the hands of a new premier, Pierre Mendes-France, on whose ideas American officials have in the past been critical.

Heat Wave Runs
Over Week End

(By The Associated Press)
A sweltering weekend was the outlook for most of the Midwest and the Southland. The spring season's longest heat wave was expected to continue right up to the start of summer Monday.

The hot and humid air extended over the Southland and northward through the Mississippi Valley into the lower Great Lakes region. Hot and dry air covered over the southwest.

Showers and thunderstorms hit areas in the Great Lakes region along the leading edge of some cooler air which remained nearly stationary southwestward through Central Wisconsin and Iowa and westward through Nebraska.

Temperatures in the swelter-belt were in the 80s and 90s Friday and in the 70s and lower 80s during the night. Chicago, in the center of the more than week-long heat waves, wilted in 98-degree heat Friday, the eighth straight day of readings of 90 or higher. St. Louis baked in 99.

Boss Helps Pickets
NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—The boss showed "em he was a real regular guy" he carried the picket sign while the striking employees rested.

"My boys have been striking for two weeks, and they're tired," George Schanerman, owner of the Academy Auto Laundry said Friday. "What the heck, I'm a regular guy!"

The Eisenhower message was considerably more than an action of friendship, however, because in carefully constructed language it warned the French that so far as the United States is concerned time is running out for ratification of the proposed European Defense Community. The EDC is a U. S.-supported plan for a six-nation defense system in which Germany would take part.

Words of Warning
The message advised the French government, moreover, that while the United States remains deeply interested in forming a "united defense" against Communist forces in Indochina, it is reserving the right to judge what might be done under any future decision.

The President's words on EDC had the effect of warning the French that while U. S. policy for several years has been based upon creation of a European Army including Germany and France as well as others, the United States will not wait indefinitely for that to come about and the time for a reappraisal is rapidly approaching. State Department officials in fact are already giving consideration to possible alternatives, including the rearming of Germany outside of any European Army.

Wyoming Sen. Hunt
Found Shot Through
Head In His Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo.), former governor or now completing his first term in the Senate, was found shot in the head today and Capitol police said the wound apparently was self-inflicted.

Hunt had been in ill health. Hunt's administrative assistant, Mike Manatos, found the 61-year-old senator in his private senate office about 7:15 a. m. (CST) and later said his condition was very critical.

The senator was rushed to Casullo Hospital, after treatment in the emergency room he was taken to the operating room at 8:55 a. m. (CST).

Mrs. Hunt arrived at the hospital a short time after the senator was admitted.

Capt. W. J. Broderick, head of the Capitol police force, said the shooting still was under investigation but that the wound appeared to be self-inflicted.

Dr. George W. Calver, the physician to Congress, authorized a statement that Hunt was found wounded and removed to the hospital. An office aide found him when he arrived at work about 7:15 a. m. (CST).

The statement said Hunt suffered a wound over the right temple from a .22 caliber rifle bullet.

Secret Defense
Huddle Is Held
At Quantico, Va.

My ELTON C. FAY
QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said today America's military planners cannot be certain when "the next war" might come—or if it does, whether it would be short and "violently destructive" or a "long drawn-out affair."

Radford was scheduled to lay this and other military planning problems on the line before the nation's defense leaders in a secret session of the Defense Secretaries' Annual Conference here.

Combat Forces Needed

In excerpts from his prepared remarks that were made public, Radford made clear he believes the uncertainties of the world situation put this country in a position "where we have to place greater reliance on combat-ready forces in being." He also said atomic power by itself is not enough.

The closed meeting of 100 top members of the Defense Department, Armed Forces and other high government officials was scheduled to get under way in advance of a visit today by President Eisenhower to this Marine base.

Radford said that this nuclear age is "synonymous with the evolution of atomic plenty and mammoth destructive power, a power which staggers one's imagination."

The President, a former five-star general always ready for an opportunity to get back to the familiar military surroundings, arranged to motor down from the White House this morning, spend the remainder of the day and drive back over the East, 35-mile route to Washington late tonight.

Marines Look Sharp

The Marine Corps turned out for the welcoming ceremony its usual smartly trained troops to parade before the commander-in-chief—tanned and trimly tailored men with the sharp alertness of experienced fighters.

Secretary of Defense Wilson was official host at a luncheon to which it was expected the President would address some informal remarks. Late in the afternoon—after time for golf—the President was invited to an outdoor barbecue.

Friday John M. Hannah, assistant secretary of defense for manpower, outlined a plan to draft into the reserves to create a three-million-man pool of trained

Senators To Speed
Up Security Check
On McCarthy Staff

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) indicated today he would go along with a Democratic demand that the Pentagon speed answers to requests for security clearances on two Senate Investigations subcommittee appointees of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Sen. McClellan of Arkansas, senior subcommittee Democrat and speaking for the three minority party members, demanded publicly Friday that the subcommittee move fast to find out why, as he put it, the two have not received Defense Department security clearances to handle classified documents for which application was made more than a year ago.

Not Much Harmony
"I will second it," Mundt said in an interview, if McClellan will ask the Pentagon "to take up these cases and say 'yes' or 'no'."

Aside from Mundt's comment, there was little sign of harmony between the Republican and Democratic members in the wake of the group's first closed-door meeting Friday following the hearings' end Thursday. The group plans future similar get-togethers for the job of writing up their report.

Mundt said he understands the two subcommittee staff members, who have not been named, have not specifically been denied clearances despite a delay of 14 months in one case and 15 months in the other.

Loyalty Not Doubted

McCarthy told a news conference Friday he knows of no staff members "refused clearance" by the military, and knows nothing about any of them that would raise doubts about their loyalty.

Solons Say TV
Delayed Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the wake of the widely televised McCarthy-Armey investigation, 37 Republican and Democratic senators have moved to bar commercially sponsored TV coverage of future Senate hearings.

Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) announced introduction of the resolution in a Senate speech Friday—the day after the close of the hearings into the dispute between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and top Army officials.

Limited commercials were allowed on broadcasts and telecasts of those proceedings, which ran 36 days. None of the eight senators who took part in the big investigation were among sponsors of Bennett's resolution.

The Utah Republican said in a speech that "what could and should have been done in 10 or 15 days" took 36 in part because "the unseen but very real demands of the vast audience . . . forced participants to answer every innuendo and counterattack with the introduction of many irrelevant but newsy side issues."

Bennett said he feels the televising of hearings takes away their factfinding value and that "protracted hearings would place a premium of demagoguery and reward brashness."

Detroit Communist
Withdraws From Race
For Common Council

DETROIT (AP)—Just after he was given legal permission to run, Communist Billy Allan withdrew from the Detroit Common Council race.

Allan, Detroit correspondent for the Daily Worker, was convicted in the Federal Smith Act trial of six top Michigan Communists. This raised the question as to his eligibility to run for public office.

He was told Friday that he could run. A short time later he withdrew, saying there "are enough liberal candidates running."

Crime-Buster Shot
Before Taking Over
At Phenix City, Ala.

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—Crime-fighting Albert L. Patterson, Alabama's newly nominated attorney general, was gunned to death in his car here Friday night just as he predicted he might be.

The 59-year-old Democratic nominee, who was to take office Jan. 17, was shot in the mouth by an assassin who, officers said, apparently rammed a small caliber pistol between Patterson's lips and fired twice.

An associate in the anti-vice crusading Russell County Betterment Assn. blamed what he called "The Crime Syndicate" for the former state senator's death and vowed swift revenge. So did Patterson's former Army major son, John, who was a member of his father's law firm.

Heard of Threats

Howard Pennington, president of the Betterment Assn., which has campaigned for years to clean up the once gay and gaudy Phenix City, told reporters he had heard Patterson say only Tuesday night that "they might try to get me."

"He said 'there's nothing you can do to help me,'" Pennington recalled, "and the only thing he asked was that if they did get him he didn't want them to get by with it. And they won't."

Pennington said he will ask Gov. Gordon Persons to declare martial law in Phenix City and that his organization will demand a special grand jury and a special prosecutor.

Higgins Gets Out Of GOP Contest

LANSING (AP) — State Sen. George N. Higgins of Ferndale rocked the political world back on its heels yesterday by withdrawing from the race for the Republican nomination as governor.

Higgins issued this cryptic statement:

"I am just taking one good man out of the race to let the people decide the Republican nomination for governor from the other four. I have great faith in the people."

He said he would not endorse any of the other candidates.

By pulling out, Higgins leaves the race to State Treas. D. Hale Brake, Sec. of State Owen J. Cleary, former Lieut. Gov. Eugene C. Keyes and Donald S. Leonard, former Detroit police commissioner.

Gov. Williams is opposed for the Democratic nomination.

Joseph E. Germaine of Gladstone withdrew his petitions for the Democratic nomination as congressman from the 11th district and leaves Harold Beaton of St. Ignace unopposed for the Democratic bid.

Rep. Victor A. Knox of Sault Ste. Marie, the incumbent, is unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Bloody Battles
Start New War
To Unseat Reds

By SAM SUMMERLIN
TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Two strategic Guatemalan seaports were reported in the hands of invading anti-Communist "liberation army" forces today.

Local informants of the Liberation Army identified the two ports as Puerto Barrios on the Caribbean and San Jose on the Pacific.

The army, under command of former Guatemalan Army Lt. Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, said two inland towns also may be in control of the invaders.

These towns were identified as Zacapa, which lies near the Honduras border between Puerto Barrios and Guatemala City, and the smaller town of Retalhuleu, in the southwest corner of the country near the Mexican border.

Movements Kept Secret

The informants said, however, that if the Guatemalan Army has sent reinforcements into San Jose and Puerto Barrios the invaders may have been pushed back from initial gains. But, they added, no setbacks thus far have been reported.

The invasion was the culmination of a long-standing effort to unseat the Communist-backed government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman.

There are reports here that Castillo Armas has been in Guatemala since the invasion began to lead his liberation army personally. But his movements have been kept secret and his headquarters twice has postponed explanation a promised statement by the 40-year-old resistance leader.

The latest report of fighting inside Guatemala was at Quezaltenango, a good-sized city about 80 miles due west of Guatemala City.

The "liberation" troops, which attacked Guatemala by land, sea and air Friday, were reported locked in bloody combat with defending forces at four important cities. There also were reports of internal uprisings throughout the embattled country.

Key Cities Attacked

A Guatemalan delegate to the United Nations announced in New York Friday night his government had protested to the Security Council against the "criminal invasion of my country." The delegate, Eduardo Castillo Arriola, said the protest had been sent to Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of the United States, Council president.

A spokesman for Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, exiled Guatemalan leader of the invaders, said fierce fighting was in progress at two ports and two important inland rail centers. They were:

Puerto Barrios, Guatemala's big east coast fruit shipping port. In New York, the National Broadcasting Co. said its Tegucigalpa correspondent reported Friday night Puerto Barrios has fallen to the rebels.

San Jose, a naval-air base and commercial port on the Pacific coast. This city was used by the United States during World War II as a long range patrol bomber base. It is a site of a large gasoline storage depot.

Bombed By Planes

Retalhuleu, a city near the Mexican border. It is the junction of a rail line from the coast at Camperico and another running south from Mexico.

Zacapa, a rail center near the Honduran border 75 miles north-east of Guatemala City, the nation's spokesman said.

The rebel invading force reportedly numbers about 5,000 men. The Guatemalan Army is about 6,000 strong, but many of the officers are believed disgruntled by the leftist trend of the government. U. S. officials have expressed fears the Arbenz regime was creating a Communist beachhead within short range of the Panama Canal.

First word of the fighting was announced here by rebel spokesmen after several days of open

Bank Debits In Escanaba Rise

An increase in Escanaba's bank debits $3,530,000 for the months of January through May over the same period last year is noted in a report as compiled by the Ninth Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

The total bank debits through May of this year is $48,051,000 as compared with $44,521,000 at this time last year. The report also shows that the month of May took a slight decrease from May, 1953.

Escanaba is second in volume only to Marquette which had $52,126,000 this year while debits there were $47,758,000 last year at this time.

Bank debits for the most part are checks against depositors accounts and represent payments for goods, services, debts, etc., but they also include transfers of funds which of themselves have no business significance.

Listed are the cities of the Upper Peninsula illustrating the volume of bank debits in thousands of dollars for May 1954 as compared with May 1953.

Bright Future Seen For U. P.

A bright economic future for Michigan's Upper Peninsula will be the theme of a meeting at Houghton Thursday and Friday of the Michigan Economic Development Commission.

According to Dan Gerber, commission chairman, the group will meet with its Upper Peninsula advisory board to discuss developments in Upper Michigan since the publication one year ago of the Ebasco survey of the peninsula's economic resources. Meetings will be held at the Memorial Union on the Michigan Tech campus.

Under study by the commission will be possible economic benefits to the Upper Peninsula from the Mackinac Straits bridge, the St. Lawrence seaway, and the proposed international bridge at Sault Ste. Marie. Other proposed developments include a natural gas pipeline across the peninsula.

The commission also will consider trends in the mining industry affected by expansion of the White Pine and the Calumet and Hecla copper mining companies. Prospects for utilizing millions of tons of low-grade iron ore have also been brightened by recent legislative approval of the new ore research center at Michigan Tech.

The Upper Peninsula advisory board is headed by George Craig, director of research and development at Calumet and Hecla.

Dr. Grover C. Dillman, Michigan Tech president, will review the recommendations made in the Ebasco survey and recent accomplishments in the peninsula's economic development. Commission members will also hear Lawrence Walsh, Ontonagon attorney, discuss what has yet to be accomplished.

to encourage further economic progress in the peninsula and Abbott M. Fox, Iron Mountain lumber executive, will propose organizational groundwork for carrying out the remaining objectives.

Process Developed For Use Of Low Grade Ore

Production of experimental iron ore concentrate from low grade deposits in Michigan's Upper Peninsula by Humboldt Mining Company was announced today by Ford Motor Company.

Development of a process for making use of the plentiful low-grade ore is significant, according to Ford officials, because high-grade deposits in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin are being depleted rapidly.

The mining company, whose operations are located at Humboldt, near Ishpeming, is owned jointly by Ford and Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company. Robert L. Bodor, manager of the mining properties department of Ford's plant engineering office, said that Humboldt's experimental iron ore concentrate is "far higher" in iron content than the Lake Superior "direct shipping" ore on which steelmakers largely depend.

Developed at Ishpeming
Mr. Bodor said that until completion of a pelleting plant near the iron ore deposits, Humboldt's product is being stabilized by mixing with standard ore before shipment on an experimental basis to Ford's Rouge plant at Dearborn. Prior to feeding into Ford's blast furnaces, it is mixed with flue dust and sintered into large chunks.

The concentrating process used by Humboldt was developed by Cleveland-Cliffs at its Ishpeming Research Laboratory. The process is unlike methods developed for use on low-grade Minnesota ore deposits where iron ore particles can be removed from waste materials by magnetic separation. The Humboldt material is non-magnetic and must be concentrated by other means.

Called "froth flotation," Humboldt's process involves mixing crushed iron-bearing Jasper rock with water and chemicals. Agitation of the mixture by air under pressure causes froth to rise to the surface of the concentrating tanks.

Employs 90 People
Iron ore particles adhere to the froth, while the waste material drops to the bottom of the tanks. The froth is then skimmed off and the moisture removed. Two tons of crude materials are required to produce one ton of concentrate.

Humboldt's first concentrating facility, employing about 90 people, has an estimated annual capacity of 250,000 gross tons, and is operating experimentally on three shifts, five days a week. This year's production will be approximately 150,000 tons of concentrate.

The first unit at Humboldt is expected to recover in four years as much ore as was mined from the property in the 55 years it previously was worked. An underground mine there was closed in 1920 and the property has been dormant since, Mr. Bodor said.

Humboldt Mining plans to construct a second concentrating plant of equal capacity and an agglomerating facility.

Park Tennis Courts Lighted For Season

Tennis courts at the south end of Ludington Park have been lighted for the season, with the lights controlled by a meter so that electricity will be conserved, it was announced by Harvey Germainson, superintendent of the electric department.

Players must insert a coin in the meter (5 cents for one hour) to turn the lights on. Purpose of the meter is to provide an automatic method of having the lights on only when they are needed by players. The 5 cents per hour does not cover the cost of electricity.

Supervisors To Meet On Monday
The Delta County Board of Supervisors will meet Monday morning in the Court House at Escanaba with Chairman Harold Gustafson of Ensign presiding.

A variety of business is expected to come before the Board for discussion or for action, according to County Clerk William Butler.

A recent opinion that counties having fractional school districts must take the state equalized valuation will affect Delta County and is expected to be discussed. Delta County has two fractional school districts—Bark River-Harris and Maple Ridge-Ewing.

Should Delta County meet the state equalized valuation in assessing for county and school purposes the county's valuation will increase by about $6,000,000 and the county-school tax revenue will increase by approximately $90,000.

The buildings and grounds committee is expected to report on the need for a new roof on the county jail.

An opinion of the attorney general in connection with the office of attorney general will come before the Board; and the county clerk will direct attention of the supervisors to a new plat submitted by the auditor general.

A Good Aim Leaves Skunk With Collar
IPSWICH, Mass. (AP)—There's a skunk wandering around the Ipswich woods wearing a glass collar. The animal stuck its head into a bottle and couldn't get it out. A woman—standing well off from her target—broke the bottle with a well-aimed rock.

When no one offered to come close enough to remove the bottle-neck, the skunk wandered off.

HEALTH CHATS
By DR. F. T. SCHUETZKE

How To Obtain Restful Sleep
FIRST—Avoid eating heavy or indigestible meals just before going to bed. A full stomach is not conducive to sound sleep. A warm nonstimulating drink at bedtime, however, is soothing and sleep-inviting.

Second—Avoid taking a hot bath near bedtime. A hot bath—like a cold bath—is stimulating and tends to restlessness. But a warm bath, of about body temperature, relaxes the body and invites sleep.

Third—If there is a tendency to constipation, try to overcome it—not by use of laxatives or cathartics, which may give temporary relief but usually make the condition worse. A better way is to eat bulky foods, such as whole-grain cereals and green vegetables, and drink liberal quantities of fruit juices. Sometimes a colon irrigation is most helpful.

Fourth—Keep your sleeping room well ventilated and not too warm. In very cold weather place a woolen blanket beneath the sheet on which you sleep. Restless turning of the body is often caused by cold air coming from beneath.

Fifth—A moderately hard mattress is much more conducive to sound sleep than is a very soft one. If you have been used to sinking yourself in a luxurious mattress on a springy bed, just for experiment change to a hard bed and note how much more rested you will feel in the morning.

Sixth—If you are very tired, breathe deeply and take a little mild exercise before going to bed. By so doing you will find that your tense muscles will tend to relax and that you will be more receptive to sleep.

Courtesy Parking Ticket Idea Would Not Have Been Popular

THE Escanaba City Council has acted wisely, we believe, in abandoning a previous intention to establish "courtesy" parking violation tickets for out of county motorists.

It is true that Escanaba is proud of a reputation that it has established for being a friendly city and it is likewise true that the courtesy ticket proposal was designed to promote this reputation.

However, it must be conceded that it is virtually impossible to establish a truly workable courtesy ticket policy that is fair to everyone. Local motorists who violate the parking ordinance are required to pay a fine of 50c if they report to the police department within 24 hours after receiving a ticket. After that time limit the tickets go to justice court and motorists then are assessed a fine of $1. It was proposed to fine out of county motorists only 25c, and to provide them with an envelope in which they could mail their fine to the city.

The courts have traditionally held that discriminatory enforcement of laws is illegal. It is almost certain that if the courtesy ticket policy had been invoked here it would have been challenged.

Actually, we doubt that the city's reputation for friendliness would have been enhanced by the courtesy ticket idea. It may have proved popular with the out of town motorists who violated the parking ordinance but it almost certainly would have been the cause of much criticism from county residents who do not reside in Escanaba. And, of course, Escanaba residents likewise would not be happy about the situation.

The time has passed, we believe, when the installation of parking meters may be construed as an emblem of unfriendliness to visitors. Virtually every city has parking meters and if they serve to keep traffic moving, they are as beneficial to the out of town motorists seeking parking space as to the local motorists.

There are many other factors that are important in creating and sustaining a city's reputation for friendliness. Primarily it depends upon the attitude of the people towards visitors.

Oil Industry Is Wooing The Motorist

THE American motorist has "never been wooed more ardently."

That striking observation came from the sales manager of a big oil company. The current year, he said, is witnessing the sharpest competition the petroleum industry has experienced since the end of World War II. He described what is happening in these words: "It is a year of massive promotions, massive advertising campaigns and the hardest selling that oil marketers have ever engaged in. It is a year of new improved products of a quality that laboratory engineers only a short time ago were describing in meetings of learned societies as the 'fuel of the future.'"

"This is what competition is doing for the American motorists. It is giving him not only better products but better service where he buys, more convenience—more of everything."

That is the way matters go in a free economy, where no one has a monopoly of anything, where the law of supply and demand establishes prices, and where those who have the knowledge and energy and ambition and initiative to do a better job than the concern down the street get the business. And this isn't good only for the consumer—it's equally beneficial in the long run to the businesses involved. It keeps them on their toes—and there's no better guarantee of progress for all.

Today's word game is designed to test your ability to recognize words similar to one another in meaning. Below you will find two groups of ten words each. The first group is numbered 1, 2, 3, etc. The second is lettered A, B, C, etc.

For each word in the first group you will find a word of almost the same meaning (a synonym) in the second group. Thus the word numbered 1 may mean practically the same as the word lettered F. Write this down as IF. When you have written down all the answers check against the correct pairings at the bottom.

Love Is Test of 'True' Religion

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

The believer in every creed, the follower of every sect or tenet, to say nothing of those who belong to great historic churches, or large denominations might say, each in his way, "My religion is the true one."

It is the way in which most believers have acted, with little tolerance for others. And with little recognition of the fact that there might be some truth in the religion of those who differed from them, or even that there might be a measure of truth in all.

I think it was George Bernard Shaw who wrote that "there is only one religion, though there are a hundred versions of it." Shaw may have written that as a challenging quip, like so many of his clever thrusts, and I am not quite sure what he meant by it.

However, I think it has this truth: At the heart of all religion, if it have any truth at all, are faith and sincerity.

But faith and sincerity are not enough. The persecutor and the intolerant have faith. They evidently believe in what they profess, and they are sincerely intense in their advocacy of it, and in their opposition to all who do not agree with them.

But truth has to do with knowledge, and knowledge depends upon understanding, and understanding depends upon love. It was an eminent scientist who said, "We understand only what we love." The scienttist who approaches the world and life with strong preconceived notions to that extent cuts himself off from seeing and understanding the facts as they are.

This is as true in the area of religion as it is in the world of science.

So, it is in accordance with reality that the New Testament makes love the center and soul of true religion, and by that very fact setting up a profound contrast with the lovelessness of much religious profession. The prophets Amos and Hosea cried out in their time against the unreality of formal worship, sacrifices, and rites to the neglect of justice and truth, and right relations man with man.

The Prophet Micah gave his famous definition of true religion: "He (the Lord) hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

The Apostle James, also, gave a very practical definition (James 1:27): "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this. To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

But John brought it out into all its fullness and inclusiveness in this manner: "He that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?" (I John 4:20). There is the test of true religion.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

AMHERST, Mass.—It's funny how kids grow up . . . On second thought it isn't so funny after all; it's chiefly funny that we don't realize they've grown up . . . It seems only yesterday that an eight-year-old boy went with me to Deerfield, Mass., to see his sister graduate from school. On the way I bought him a bow and arrow to keep him occupied, and during the graduation ceremony he entertained envious youngsters of his age and older by shooting with remarkable accuracy, at the trees of a near-by orchard . . . Now, just a few days ago, in what seems like the span of only a few months, I came up to this same part of Massachusetts to watch the same youngster file past the college president, past a platform of cap-and-gown dignitaries, past the milestone of maturity, to receive a diploma and go on out into an uncertain world.

I would not be writing about these personal things, except, first, I get tired of writing about the machinations of men in Washington; and second, a lot of sons of a lot of parents are filing past other presidents or school principals right now, also to face an uncertain world . . . And I couldn't help think, as I watched the long line of 230 young men, tall, good-looking—William Wilson Taft of the Tafts of Ohio; Socrates Nicholas Tsikares, son of a Greek immigrant; Shigeru Okumura, who came all the way from Japan; Fred Culver, great-grandson of an African slave—I couldn't help but think that this cross-section of America in a few years would be leading America . . . And I also hoped they would do a better job than their elders.

UNCERTAIN YEARS

Most in that long line were born in uncertain times—the depression year of 1932. The birth rate was low then. People couldn't afford to have many children. The banks closed shortly after they were born. Men were selling apples on street corners . . . A bonus army of unemployed veterans camped outside the capital on the night the particular young man I came up to Amherst to see was born. And for the first time in our history, the three drawbridges across the Anacostia River were raised to prevent a threatening crowd of Americans from entering their own capital.

Those were uncertain times when these youngsters came into the world. Yet no more uncertain than the times they face as they now go out into the world . . . Here at home we have improved things a bit since 1932. We have built better safeguards against unemployment, against bank failures, against old-age poverty . . . But we have done little about war . . . In the line of gown faculty which marched in the graduation ceremony were mixed the blue uniforms of Air Force officers, the ROTC instructors who have already trained half of that long line of youngsters for war. The other half will report to draft boards immediately . . . And I couldn't help but wonder as I watched the line—solmn, tall, dignified—file up to get those coveted sheepskins, how many of them a year from now would be in the steaming jungles of Indo-China or squashing through the rice paddies of Siam . . . I could not help but think, also, that the trouble with France today is that 1,000,000 of her young men were killed in World War I, the cream of her manhood, the youngsters who, if alive today, would be leading France . . . When you sacrifice that number of men from any nation, it loses its vitality, faces bankruptcy.

LACK OF LEADERSHIP

I couldn't help but think also that we who are supposed to lead the nation have been tragic failures when it comes to war . . . God knows, most of us have tried. As I look back on the Friendship Trains, the CARE packages, the exchange of students, the hope and good will which most of the American people have sent abroad, I think most of us have tried . . . But we forget that peace is a much harder goal to achieve than war. War is easy to fall into, though not so easy to win . . . Peace is different. It's like marriage. You have to keep working at it. The hardest days begin after the peace treaty is signed and after the ink is dry on the marriage license . . . Unfortunately, we, the people, are inclined to get discouraged. We listen to rabble-rousers. We listen to those who would divide, to the hate-mongers, to the intolerance-breeders and the suspicion-spreaders . . . We have been more concerned of late with the 25,000 Communists in this country, whom J. Edgar Hoover says he has under control, than about the gradual drift of the rest of the world toward distrust of us.

So we're going to increase the armed forces again. We're going to vote more billions for the military. And within a year, Vice President Nixon's prediction may come to pass—that the young man who got out of the schools and colleges this June will find themselves in Southeast Asia . . . I hope these young men, when they get a little older, and become the leaders of the nation, will do better than we have. I hope they'll carry out the recent campaign pledges to get behind the Iron Curtain; the pledges to woo the peoples behind the Iron Curtain away from Communist creeds and Kremlin masters. I hope they'll realize that the seeds of war are planted through ideas, and that their elders have been miserable failures when it comes to countering Kremlin ideas and cultivating democracy ideas . . . I hope they will not transfer the most efficient and popular ambassador we have ever sent to India, Chester Bowles, just at a time when India is the key to our battles in the Orient.

Children Of Migrants Follow Sun But Live In Twilight Zone

CHILDREN OF MIGRANTS "AT HOME": Their parents are wanted for their labor, but not for their disease, hunger and misery, say welfare officials who are seeking to better their lot.

By KENNETH O. GILMORE

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Unaccepted, uncared for and uneducated—these are the children of eastern U. S. migrant farm workers, according to state and federal government welfare officials.

From the Everglades of Florida to the far reaches of New York, these children tag along with their wandering parents who sweat out meager incomes off uncertain and changing crops.

Wherever migrant workers go they have problems and pose problems. "They follow the sun for a living but live in a twilight zone of citizenship," says Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

But it is the children who suffer the brunt of this homeless existence. Many American communities refuse to provide them with welfare and medical facilities when sick or abandoned. For they are the innocent offspring of outsiders. Migrants are wanted for their labor but not for their disease, hunger and misery.

Between 35 and 40 thousand migrant workers help farmers harvest their crops along the Eastern seaboard. After toiling all winter in the citrus groves of Florida they pile into trucks around the first of May and start moving up the coast. Some stop in Georgia and the Carolinas to pick apples, beans and apples while others continue up through Virginia, Maryland and Delaware to harvest vegetables.

During the summer and early fall hands are needed in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York to bring in cherries, tomatoes, carrots, potatoes and beans. By December most of the workers have returned to Florida.

For the first time a conference was recently held in Washington to take steps towards improving the health, education and welfare of migrants and their children. More than 200 delegates attended from public and private agencies in the 10 Eastern seaboard states through which migrants pass.

Mrs. Frances McKnight, a representative from New York, gave some frightening examples of what migrant youngsters go through.

One little boy, aged four and a half, spent his entire life closed up and carried in a pasteboard basket. When he was discovered and taken to a special nursery school for children of migrant mothers, he could not walk but only sit. Never before had he laid his eyes on a toy.

Despite strict labor laws three children, all under six, were found attempting to support themselves and their expectant, unwed mother. Every day they went out to the bean fields in King Ferry, N. Y. When state labor inspectors came around they threw themselves flat on their stomachs and hid between the rows.

Such cases are not rare, although some are less shocking. They stress the need for what the conference termed adult education. Gross ignorance of migrant parents is one of the reasons for the plight of their children. In many instances they simply do not know better.

Of even greater importance is the education of the children themselves. Only a handful receive adequate schooling due to constant travel. What they do pick up while on the road is seldom recorded and often not recognized.

A typical case is that of a bright nine-year-old boy who had to read the same third grade text book in three states where he tried going to school. He had no way of proving his progress to teachers in Georgia, New Jersey and New York. As a result he decided to quit school, for he felt he was getting nowhere.

Action is being taken to improve such situations but progress is slow. Many of the agencies trying to help are underfunded and lack the necessary funds. Little information is available on the true number and location of migrants.

Among proposals supported by the East Coast Migrant Conference were these:

Migrants should be given a health examination before leaving on their trek northward and cumulative records developed to go along with them.

Since seasonal workers contribute to the economy of the states in which they work, it was recommended that residence requirements be eliminated so they could share in the welfare services available to other citizens.

It was also urged that Old Age Social Insurance, Unemployment Compensation and Workmen's Compensation be extended to migratory workers. A standard wallet size transfer report card should be given children to carry from one school to another.

So They Say

There are too many Methodists who come to church once or twice a year, throw a nickel in the plate and then walk out with 10 or 12 dollars' worth of hymn books. —Rev. Lamar Watkins, Stone Mountain, Ga.

We (House un-American Activities Committee) are not here to smear anyone. Our purpose is to investigate the Communist conspiracy and to inform the public so they can know Red methods. —Rep. Kit Clardy (R., Mich.), subcommittee chairman.

We (U. S.) are here (at Geneva conference) to uphold the authority of the United States to resist aggression. We are here to prevent the spread of communism in southeast Asia.—Gen. Walter Bedell Smith.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

THE AFTERMATH—The Army-McCarthy hearing has come to a somewhat anticlimatic close after all of the television drama, largely because Sen. Charles E. Potter, Michigan Republican, would like to draw a little blood—even after the duel is ended.

Sen. Potter has asserted that both sides have convicted the other of "pressure" and "blackmail" and is in favor of firing those who may have perjured themselves as witnesses.

According to the Associated Press, Sen. Potter is proposing the discharge of some of the "employees who have played top roles on both sides" in the 36 days of public hearings.

This was interpreted to mean that Sen. Potter was willing to shift the blame below the rank of Sen. McCarthy, Republican senator from Wisconsin, and probably Secretary of the Army Stevens, the two principals in the dispute.

BIG WHODUNIT—Certainly Sen. Potter cannot mean that the two principals in the controversy should not be examined for possible perjury, as well as the "employees." No doubt the Associated Press wrongly interpreted his statement.

For an examination of Associated Press dispatches during the period of the hearing will show that Sen. McCarthy, particularly, was unable to make up his mind as to one major point in the dispute: Who "instigated" the army's officials charges against him?

From the time the hearing opened until it closed, Sen. McCarthy kept looking around for suspects, pointing to one individual after another as the cause of his troubles. Sometimes he found them in pairs.

At the beginning he emphatically accused two officials of the Eisenhower Administration; and he wound up by putting the blame on a pair of Democrats, just as emphatically.

FROM THE RECORD—Here is the story of the McCarthy accusations as the hearing unfolded:

March 11—An army report accused Sen. McCarthy and his aides of trying to pressure the army into giving preferential treatment to Pvt. Schine, consultant to McCarthy's staff before he was drafted.

March 12—McCarthy accused Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams of blackmail. He said they were trying to get him to drop his hunt for Communists. This they denied.

April 20—McCarthy accused H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense, of masterminding the charges against him. He said Hensel wanted to head off a probe of his (Hensel's) own "misconduct" and "possible law violation." Hensel called these accusations barefaced lies.

May 24—Stevens and Adams testified under oath that the army alone was responsible for the charges. McCarthy then contended the charges were "instituted" by the White House.

June 4—McCarthy accused Rogers, the deputy attorney general, of taking part in "lighting up the fuse—setting up the machinery" for the army's charges.

June 5—McCarthy said it now appeared Stevens is "a fine, innocent fellow" who got "mousetrapped" into touching off the hearings "by smart Washington politicians. He accused Sen. Symington, Missouri Democrat, and Atty. Clark Clifford, now in private practice but once President Truman's special counsel, of using the hearing in an attempt to destroy the Republican party.

June 7—McCarthy accused Symington of "instigating" the army's charges and said Symington and Clifford connived with the "not too brilliant" Stevens in an effort to "get the Republicans to commit suicide."

RIGHT OR WRONG—Perjury is defined as a "wilfully false statement of fact material to the issue" under hearing.

Did Sen. McCarthy speak the truth is all of his accusations against those he said "instigated" the charges against him?

The record will show that he accused the Secretary of the Army, the Army Counselor, the Assistant Secretary of Defense, the Deputy Attorney General, the "White House," Sen. Symington and Atty. Clifford.

Under the circumstances it appears fairly obvious that no examination of the testimony by those seeking the possibility of perjury can overlook Sen. McCarthy's own statements.

If there is to be a net cast to catch fish, the haul should include the big ones also.

Cabin And Lodge Call For Tricks To Save Money

SUMMER HOME, cabin and lodge construction calls for even more economy than the building of the most budget restricted year-round home. Secondary domiciles are always luxuries. Therefore, few people can afford to splurge on such construction. And, because of limited use, summer homes do not need the same construction as a town house. Yet, permanence and sturdiness are very important.

A rediscovery of an ancient building method is helping to solve this problem. It is variously known as "post and beam" framing, "plank and beam" construction, "pole type" and the "rigid pillar" building. There are a few differences among those labels, but the fundamental principle is the same.

Briefly, these methods eliminate the use of upright 2 by 4s spaced every 16 inches (on centers) around the perimeter of a house. In place of such studs, posts are erected 8 feet apart and the house is hung, or bridged between these posts. This is the way some Colonial pioneers and many Japanese built their homes about 300 years ago.

A FEW MONTHS back this way of building was described in this column of your newspaper because of the success some farmers had experienced in building pole type barns that defied tornadoes. Readers from Canada to the Rio Grande wrote in asking for more information.

THIS POST-AND-BEAM house at New Canaan, Conn., stands on 15 pins anchored in bedrock. Built by Ernest Rau from plans by John Black Lee, designer, the house is an interesting example of how this simplified type of framing affords large glass areas for modern architecture. Interior bathroom has a skylight. The house covers 1,900 square feet.

Since that column was published, the home building industry has completed extensive research into the practicability of rigid pillar framing for homes. The current issue of the trade publication, House and Home, re-builders across the continent "have switched to post-and-beam and/or plank-and-beam."

People planning summer homes or modern dwellings with big glass areas will be interested to know the results of this study.

Questioning this simplified type of framing on the bases "It is cheaper? Can it help your plan? Can it give you a better looking house?" this trade magazine says "The answer to all three questions is 'yes' — but 'or' sometimes — if."

"POST-BEAM-PLANK" is a wonderful structural system if you use it right. House and Home tells the builders. "There sheets of glass, flat roofs and open plan. This is why they think it helps a plan and produces a better looking house.

As for economy, there is no denying that this theory of framing cuts down on the amount of lumber needed, but it raises a hazard insofar as workmen may not be able to work as fast until they understand it.

Joseph Eichler, a builder of San Francisco, found that he could save 10 per cent after his first 20 houses were built and almost 25 per cent after his first 80 houses, when his carpenters got used to the system.

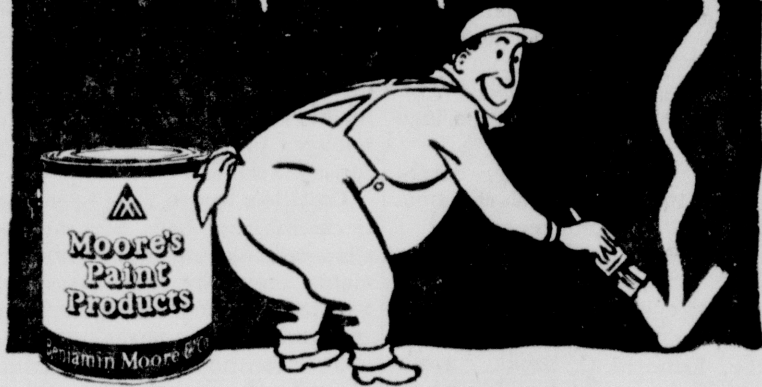

PROBLEMS ENCOUNTERED when you use 2-inch planks for a roof deck on a post and beam frame include insulation, concealment of electric conduits and heating and ventilating ducts. Also if you don't care for exposed rafters in your ceiling, a false ceiling is needed.

But for summer home construction, or a build-it-yourself lodge it sounds like you can save yourself something in lumber bills and work, too, by taking a tip

Eden And U. S. Peace Envoy To Leave Geneva

By EDDIE GILMORE
GENEVA (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith will leave the Geneva Conference tomorrow. There was no information as to whether either intends to return.

A U. S. announcement said Smith was flying back to Washington at the request of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to make a personal report on the Indochina peace talks. During Smith's absence the U. S. delegation will be headed by the American Ambassador to Czechoslovakia, U. Alexis Johnson.

Eden and Smith conferred briefly this morning. Later Eden saw Red China's Chou En-lai and Smith talked with the foreign minister of Viet Nam, Nguyen Quoc Dinh.

The two Western leaders planned to attend this afternoon's secret session of the nine-party Indochina conference, which will make an effort to see what, if anything, the Communists and West have in common on their proposals for peace in Laos and Cambodia.

The nine Indochina conference participants planned to examine various proposals already submitted by the Laotian, Cambodian and Red Chinese diplomats to see how much they have in common.

Meanwhile, representatives of Red China, the Communist-led Vietnam Viet Nam, Laos, and Cambodia scheduled another get-together to continue their effort at settling the conflict in the French Union states.

The full Indochina parley appeared to be taking a breather before plunging into next week's series of bargaining sessions.

fighters ready to go in case of war.

Hannah said the plan, which resembled the universal military training program previously received coolly in Congress, is now being studied by the National Security Council.

Hannah said the new program would call for drafting men to meet requirements of Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force reserve units. Induction of men into the compulsory reserve, Hannah said, "might well be done by lot by the local draft boards." Youth could be selected for this duty at 18½, when they become liable for military service.

Youth, 15, Found Sane; Must Stand Trial For Killing Detroit Child

DETROIT (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Terrance DeMoss has been found sane and capable of standing trial for murder in the mutilation of four-year-old Marion Jo Zobrovitz.

A sanity commission composed of two psychiatrists and a physician reported to Recorder's criminal court yesterday that the boy suffered "organic brain damage" from an attack of pneumonia nine years ago.

But the commission said Terrance was legally sane and capable of assisting counsel at his trial.

Probate court has waived jurisdiction to permit the boy to stand trial as an adult. No trial date has been set.

Indochina Rebel Ambush Bombed

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—A thousand Communist-led Vietnamese guerrillas were pounded by French planes, artillery and tank guns in an abortive ambush along the Hanoi-Haiphong supply line, the French high command reported today.

A French Army spokesman said French losses were light. He said 35 Vietnamese were killed and 20 taken prisoner in the running battle.

French planes and artillery plastered the Vietnamese as they tried to flee the ambush site and "their losses were heavy," the Army spokesman said.

French-piloted American-supplied warplanes, meanwhile, continued stepped up bombing of Vietnamese bases inside the Delta and poured tons of high explosives on rebel supply convoys moving toward the Delta defense perimeter.

Twenty miles west of Hanoi mobile French artillery pounded three villages rebel guerrillas are using as bases.

The high command said B26 dive bombers cut highways ahead of rebel supply columns on "invasion routes" 13 and 41 west of the Delta perimeter. Warplanes bombed one column of Molotov trucks bringing supplies. Some explosions and fires were reported.

Salvagers Find Prize Ships At Bottom Of Harbor Off Rabaul

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—An Australian syndicate began salvage operations on the bottom of Rabaul Harbor today and reported a big prize at the very outset—a Japanese aircraft carrier with 20 planes intact on its flight deck. The salvagers said it would be worth around $175,000.

Capt. John Johnstone, head of the diving team, said they found at least 70 sunken ships in the harbor. Rabaul, on the island of New Britain off New Guinea, was a heavily-bombed Japanese stronghold in World War II.

The syndicate has disposal rights to all ships in Rabaul and Bougainville Harbor, in the Solomons. It hopes to raise some of the ships and salvage others for scrap. The syndicate hopes to find 200 ships in Rabaul Harbor alone. Most are Japanese.

Flint Paratrooper Believed Captured By Vietnam Reds

FLINT (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan of Flint, who lost a son in World War II, had word today their other son is missing in Indochina.

Defense Department officials identified Army pfc Donald E. Morgan, 22, as one of five American enlisted men missing and feared held by the Vietnamese Communists.

The Morgans received a telegram Friday from the Army Friday saying it was feared he had fallen into the hands of the Vietnamese rebels and was being detained. On May 31, they had heard from Donald who had reported "everything okay."

Morgan enlisted in the paratroops two years and four months ago. He had been in Indochina five weeks teaching the natives parachute rigging.

Television Revenue Gains 1,000 Per Cent

ANN ARBOR (AP)—An increase of almost 1,000 per cent in gross revenues from television broadcasting in the last five years is reported by a TV and radio industry representative.

mobilization of Col. Castillo's troops throughout Honduras.

Nicaragua Involved

In Guatemala, Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello told a news conference "the battle for Guatemala" had begun. The only fighting he reported, however, was the bombing of San Jose. He said the planes were of unidentified nationality.

Toriello accused Nicaragua of supporting the rebel forces which, he said, included nationals of Cuba, the Dominican Republic and other Central American nationalities, as well as Guatemalan exiles. He declared "Guatemala will stand as one man against this criminal invasion."

There was no indication how many planes took part in the rebel bomb attacks. There also was no report from insurgent forces as to their effectiveness, although Castillo's spokesman said fire bombs were dropped on the San Jose gasoline depot.

Communications with Guatemala City were hampered by a suspension of all foreign commercial telephone calls to the capital. The International Telephone and Telegraph Co. announced in New York last night the Arbenz government had taken over the service.

Well-Laid Plot

In Washington, Guatemalan Charge d'Affaires Alfredo Chocano, described the uprising as the climax of a well-laid plot. He said his government has repeatedly denounced preparations in Honduras for an attack.

Castillo's troops have been openly mobilizing here several days. Clad in khaki uniforms without insignia, they have been seen moving by air and other transport toward the Guatemalan border.

The conflict has been building up several years but the situation became tense after U. S. State Department officials denounced the Arbenz regime as Communist-influenced.

Although it has been estimated there are not more than 1,000 actual card-carrying Communists in Guatemala, Reds control many strategic areas of public life. A declared Communist, Moscow-trained Manuel Gutierrez, heads the Guatemalan Workers Federation. A fellow traveler runs the powerful Landless Farmers Union.

These two groups have a combined membership of more than 100,000.

First Revolt In 1944

The 40-year-old president and his government have consistently denied the charges of Red domination. They insist there are no Communists in the Cabinet.

Arbenz first came into prominence in 1944 as chief organizer of the Army revolt that overthrew dictator Jorge Ubico that year. He was inaugurated president in 1951.

With the aid of Communists and their allies, Arbenz has pushed an ambitious program for improving the lot of the landless peasant. All but a half million of the nation's 3,283,209 people depend on farming for their livelihood. Seventy per cent of the land, however, is owned by two per cent of the people.

About 400,000 acres have been seized, including many owned by the United Fruit Co. of Boston, Mas. The government has been arguing with the United States over the company's claims for compensation.

As signs of Communist influence in Guatemala increased, U. S. Secretary of State Dulles carried the question to the Inter-American Conference of Foreign Ministers at Caracas, Venezuela, last March. The parley approved a resolution calling for joint action against Red infiltration of an American government.

The climax came May 17 when the State Department announced a 10 million dollar arms shipment from Stettin, a port in Communist-ruled Poland, was being unloaded at Puerto Barrios. Dulles said the shipment made Guatemala the dominant military power in Central America.

(By The Associated Press)

The little Caribbean republic of Guatemala is about half the size of Kansas, spanning slightly more than 200 miles—east to west—at its widest point. Its population is 3,283,209.

The country runs 150 miles north to south except for an extension of the eastern border which measures 300 miles to the northmost tip.

The capital—Guatemala City—lies about 1,000 miles south of New Orleans, La.

Puerto Barrios, an east coast port where serious uprisings reportedly have occurred, lies some 150 miles northeast of the capital.

Zacapa, another town mentioned as a scene of action, lies 75 miles northeast of Puerto Barrios.

San Jose, also mentioned in the battle dispatches, is a naval-air base lying on the Pacific Coast about 50 miles south of Guatemala City.

Mary L. Meyers, Lawrence McCabe Wed At Schaffer

SCHAFER—Baskets of white peonies, carnations, snapdragons and gladioli graced the altars of Sacred Heart Church, Schaffer, for the wedding of Mary Leona Meyers of Chicago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meyers, Schaffer, and Lawrence Blake McCabe, son of Mrs. Olive McCabe, Chicago.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph Beauchene at 9 a. m. today. The Mass in Honor of the Sacred Heart by Korman was sung by the choir of Sacred Heart Church. The bride placed her bouquet on the altar of the Blessed Virgin while the choir sang the hymn, "On This Day O Beautiful Mother." Following the processional by Rossini, Mrs. Roy Seymour sang, "Ave Maria." The choir director and organist, Mrs. Blanche Seymour played the recessional at the close of the ceremony.

Lace Over Satin

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white chantilly lace over satin. The fitted bodice was detailed with a Queen Anne collar and long tapering sleeves. Her three tiered chantilly lace skirt was worn over a hoop nylon net underskirt. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was caught to a crown of seed pearls and pearl sequins. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and carnations with feathered carnation streamers.

Miss Dorothy Meyers, a sister of the bride, served as the maid of honor. She was attired in a gown styled with a lace bodice and a double nylon net skirt over taffeta in a shade of yellow. Her matching lace bolero and headpiece completed the ensemble. Her colonial bouquet consisted of bronze roses encircled by bronze snapdragons.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Wesley Palmgren and Velma and Barbara Meyers, all sisters of the bride, wore gowns of yellow fashioned identical to the maid of honor. Their jewelry was white pearl earrings. They carried bouquets of bronze snapdragons and bronze roses.

Brother-in-law of the bride, Wesley Palmgren, acted as best man for Mr. McCabe. Ushering the guests were Stanley Makowski and Robert Butryn.

Scientists Waging Determined War Against Invasion Of Sea Lamprey

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Scientists in laboratories and in the field are waging a determined war against an invader from the Atlantic Ocean, a parasitic marauder bent on destroying fish life in the Great Lakes.

The enemy is the sea lamprey, an eel-like creature whose sucking mouth, armed with rows of teeth and a rasping tongue, attaches itself to lake trout, whitefish, walleyes, pike and even perch and lesser fish and literally sucks the life from them.

The federal government has appropriated over the past several years a total of $1,250,000 to fight the spreading menace of the sea lamprey. And the battle is only beginning and is still far from won.

Holding The Line

A progress report on lamprey control, presented by Leo Erkkila, Marquette, in charge of the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service program for the upper Great Lakes, reveals the problem as immense and difficult. But the scientists are hopeful that they will win and that the fine food fishes and the commercial fishing industry of the Lakes will yet be saved.

Because Lake Superior has the fewest lampreys and the largest lake trout population, control there was held of first priority, Erkkila said.

"If we can keep the Lake Superior trout we can use them to restock the other lakes when we have the lamprey under control," he said.

To "hold the line" against the advancing lamprey, 44 electric control devices have been installed on 44 spawning streams along the south shore of Lake Superior. (The Canadian Dominion government has appropriated $300,000 to install similar devices on the north side of the lake.)

Lake Michigan Hit

The advance of the lamprey was rapid once it reached Lake Huron and Lake Michigan, and the greatest blow to the fishing industry was the rapid decimation of the valuable lake trout.

Lake Michigan, which once produced an annual average of 6,000,000 pounds of lake trout for the market, began to feel the lamprey menace in 1945. Production dropped rapidly, Erkkila reported, until in 1952 the total lake trout produced was less than 10,000 pounds.

Besides the 44 electronic weirs on lamprey spawning streams in Lake Superior, the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service has installed seven from Escanaba eastward in Little and Big Bays de Noc.

These devices, charging the water with an electric shock field, are designed to kill the lampreys on their way to their river spawning grounds or to guide them into traps where they are destroyed.

Thousands Are Killed

The lamprey has a five-year life cycle. After spawning in the streams the adults die. The thread-like young burrow in the muddy bottom until they attain the size of a pencil and then make their way downstream to the lakes, there to begin the destructive feeding on fish.

By destroying the adults or preventing them from reaching spawning beds, the lampreys will be reduced in number and the lake trout and other fish will be saved. Scientists have not yet offered the hope that the time will ever come when the Great Lakes will again be lamprey-free.

Effectiveness of the electronic devices is indicated in the fact that to date on the seven streams of the Bay de Noc area more than 7,000 sea lampreys have been taken; and more than 3,000 have been destroyed at weirs on Lake Superior.

The Sturgeon River at Nahma has been most productive of lampreys, indicating it is one of the major spawning streams for the parasite, Erkkila reported. Of the 7,000 lampreys taken in the Bay de Noc area, about 3,500 came from the Sturgeon.

Try To Save Fish

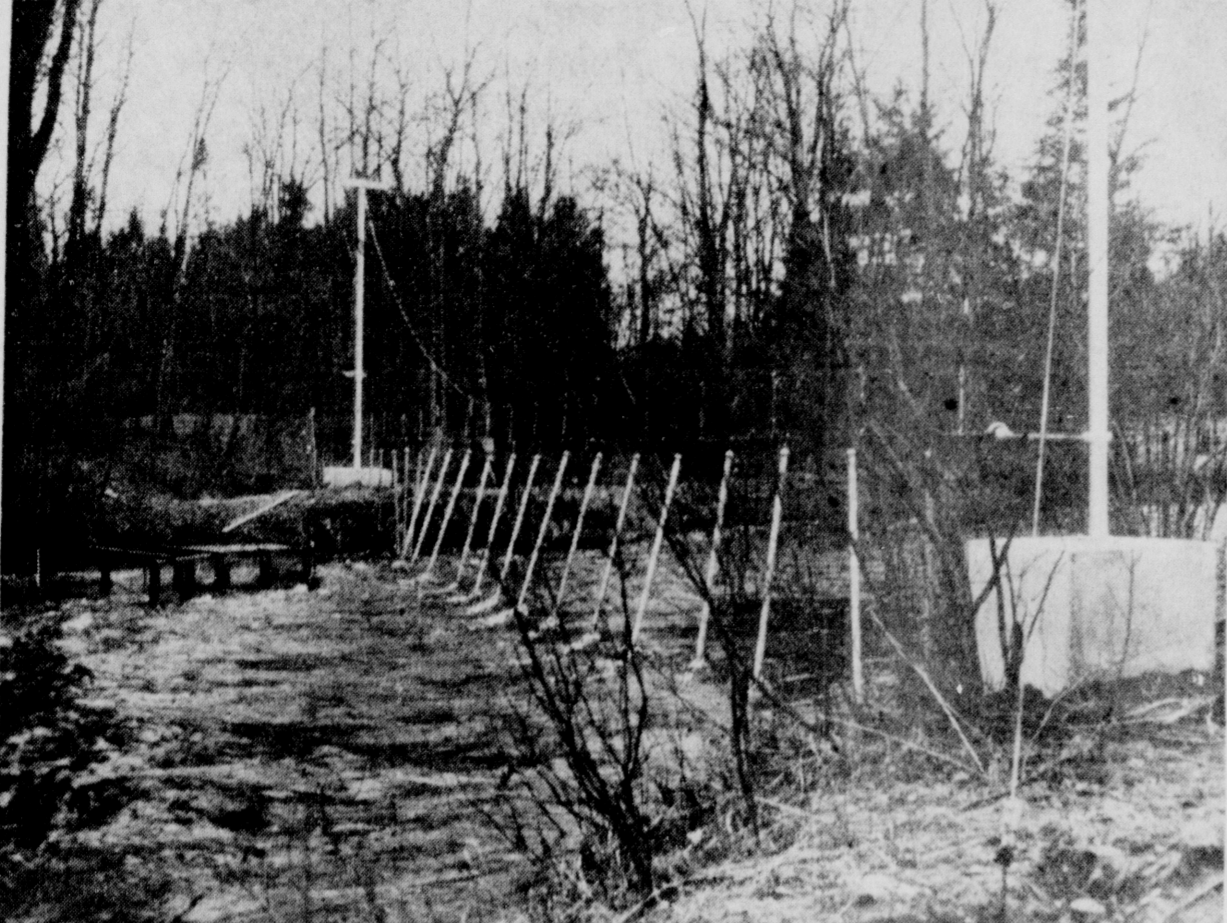

Some of the lamprey weirs are located on streams noted also as a spawning ground for game fish, but every effort is made to keep the fish kill to a minimum, Erkkila declared.

"We don't deny there is fish mortality, because it cannot be avoided," Erkkila said. "But we are trying to lick the problem and if the public will bear with us, I am sure it can be solved."

Erkkila noted that more than 500 spawning rainbow trout have been lifted over to continue their spawning run on one Lake Superior stream; that the electricity was shut off for three days on the Whitefish River to permit an accumulation of walleyes to run upstream to spawn at the height of the season this spring.

Extend Into Wisconsin

While the war against the lamprey continues and the Fish & Wildlife Service seeks to solve the problem of letting spawning fish pass through the traps, there are no plans for utilizing the trapped

Heavenly Phenomenon Of 1913 Seen Here, Is Object Of Study

By RALPH KAZIATECK

"It's the end of the world" seemed to be an almost universal phrase in this part of the western hemisphere on the cool, cloudless and quiet Sunday evening of February 9, 1913 when what was described as a "Heavenly phenomenon" by the Escanaba Press, came to pass.

How many local people will remember that spectacular sight of a "great fireball procession" which was seen moving across the skies for several minutes on that evening in 1913?

A slow moving procession of groups of fireballs and meteors lasting for several minutes, rumbling through the skies, alarming people, was the reason for the expression, "It's the end of the world!"

It is strange that astronomers have learned so little of this phenomenon in the United States. No astronomer has as yet made a serious search for such observations and now, Alexander D. McBane, research assistant for the Institute of Meteorites, University of New Mexico, has undertaken the enormous project of gathering as much information about it as possible for scientific reasons.

41 Years Have Past

Forty-one years have passed in which time no one has knowledge nor has an explanation been offered of this rumbling group of fireballs, which appeared to residents of Escanaba like the "sparks from a locomotive sparring the skies." Mr. McBane has started to gather data and information on the spectacle and has requested the Escanaba Press to check its files of 1913 for any reference that may have been made of the incident.

On February 12, 1913 the Press carried the following article with the appropriate headline "Shower of Stars!"

"The attention of many people in the city was attracted on Sunday evening to a shower of shooting stars that filled the northern horizon for several minutes. The stars appeared to come out of the west toward the east and when they first appeared are described as being so thick as to resemble sparks thrown from a locomotive. They gradually diminished in frequency until they finally disappeared."

The article went on to say that, "John Novack, the local astronomer, did not see the unusual heavenly phenomenon and local people are at a loss to account for the unusual astronomical disturbance."

This information is being forwarded by the Press to researcher McBane for his use.

Seen At Alpena

It is definitely known that the procession was seen in Michigan at Alpena and Marshall, in New York at Buffalo and Elmira and was also seen at Scranton, Pa.

Astronomers, at the time, had traced the slow moving mass of meteors and fireballs in Saskatchewan, Ontario, Bermuda and Brazil. Mr. McBane went on to point out that no ordinary fireball has ever been tracked for even a quarter of this distance prior to that time nor since.

It will take years for McBane to compile enough information to submit a complete and thorough report, but he should have something of interest from his findings by the end of this year, he said.

Summer Officially Will Arrive June 21

WASHINGTON—The season of suntan lotion, mosquito repellent, outdoor barbecue and open-top convertibles has been around for several weeks, but summer doesn't officially arrive in the United States until June 21—at exactly 55 minutes past 6 p. m. Eastern Daylight Time.

That's the day the sun works longer hours than on any other day of the year: 15 hours and 37 minutes at Eastport, Me.; Minneapolis and Portland, Ore.; 14 hours and 31 minutes at Chattanooga, Albuquerque and Los Angeles; and some five minutes over 14 hours at Jacksonville, New Orleans and San Antonio.

This annual phenomenon, known as the summer solstice, occurs when the sun is directly overhead at the Tropic of Cancer, an imaginary line encircling the earth 23½ degrees north of the Equator, the National Geographic Society points out.

Sun "Stands Still"

For several days the sun appears to stand still, hence the word solstice, a derivation from the Latin phrase "when the sun stands still."

However, on June 22 the sun actually begins its journey "south for the winter." Six months later, Old Sol will be directly above the Tropic of Capricorn, and summer will begin in the Southern Hemisphere at a time when the northern half of the earth is wrapped in winter garb.

Highest temperatures in the United States usually are not registered until late July and August, after increased heat from the sun's rays has had time to soak in. Once the air blanket gets warm enough, less sunshine is required to sustain high readings.

Hottest spot in the United States is Furnace Creek in California's Death Valley. An all-time high temperature of 134 degrees was recorded there in 1913.

Some Other Places Hotter

America, however, is cool even at summer's peak, compared to some other sections of the globe. When seasonal warmth bakes the Imperial Valley, drives Chicagoans to lakeside beaches and sizzles the sidewalks of New York, Americans can take comfort in the fact that it's probably a lot hotter somewhere else.

In Azizia, for instance, a little village in northwestern Libya, the mercury has soared to 136.4 degrees "in the shade."

In Iran, along the Persian Gulf unshaded thermometers have recorded 189 degrees.

Scientists say the weather is warmer than it used to be. They cite melting ice fields, changes in the migrating habits of birds and animals and the northward march of plant life as evidence.

Children To Move 1500 Tons Of Sand

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — Beach-going youngsters have 1500 tons of sand to move this summer and Salem officials think they'll do it with pails and shovels.

Because of unusual tide conditions, Crane's beach in nearby Ipswich had too much sand. And because of lack of snow Salem's snow division was inactive. Thinking the sand would improve Salem's beaches, the snow crews hauled the sand and dumped it in piles above the flood tide mark. Now, it's up to the children to spread it.

Teacher's Summer Tour Of Europe Will Combine Pleasure And Education

By JOAN DeSHAMBO

"Some day I shall have the opportunity to see the Scandinavian countries!" This statement is one which persons often heard stated by Miss Vendela Sundquist, who resides at 1002 Stephenson Ave., and is fifth grade teacher at the Barr School.

Realizing that ambition this summer will be Miss Sundquist, who left today for Chicago, the first step in making her first trip abroad. This trip not only will be pleasurable, but it also will be most profitable. She will participate in the special summer session vacations offered to American college students and teachers by various colleges. The two tours in which Miss Sundquist will take part are being sponsored by St. Olaf's College at Northfield, Minn., and San Jose State College, Calif.

Accompanying Miss Sundquist throughout much of the tour will be two teachers, Martha Wagbo of Midland, Mich., and Mary Carlton of Barrington, Ill., who were members of the Menominee School faculty at the same time as Vendela. Two hundred persons in all will be members of part of the tour.

Plans Boat Trip

She will meet the group at Chicago, and they will leave New York City June 23 and board the liner, S. S. Stavangerfjord, headed for Norway. Many of the other teachers and students taking these tours will travel via air, but Vendela wanted to enjoy the leisure of a boat trip.

During her visit, Miss Sundquist will combine two tours, allowing her to study for two weeks in Norway, two weeks in Sweden and two in Denmark. After the six weeks of studying and extensive touring, Vendela will travel to Finland, the homeland of her father Victor Sundquist, and her late mother, to spend one month with relatives and friends. Including the tours, her visit in Finland and the boat trips—the overseas excursion will last approximately three months.

She will arrive in Oslo, Norway Sunday, July 4, and will be able to spend all that day's time with her own choosings. The specially designed summer session study course for this group will begin July 5 and continue through July 15. Three courses, the social and political institutions of Norway and the educational system of Norway, will be held in the mornings, leaving every afternoon and Sunday, July 11, to "browse-around" the city of Oslo.

To Visit In Stockholm

Among the interesting sights of Oslo are Kon-Tiki, Fram Ship, Froger Park, world famous outdoor museum, Stav churches and Viking ships.

Stockholm, Sweden is the next site of a special two weeks summer session study course, and the members of the touring group will arrive there Friday, July 16, with three days, until July 19, to enjoy freely in the city of Stockholm.

Opening the study course there will be a visit to the Royal Board of Education, where one of the heads of the Board will lecture on the Swedish School Reform and the educational system.

The morning lectures and the afternoon tours, comprising the two weeks summer school work, tie in together very well. Some of the lectures and the afternoon tours are: a lecture on social welfare in Sweden followed by visits to institutions of the Stockholm Youth Welfare Board; a lecture on young delinquents and the respective educational institutions and a visit to a school for youthful delinquents; a lecture on the woman's place in the Swedish community and a lecture on tradition, family life and education in the home; a boat trip to Saltsjobaden, leisure resort on the coast preceded by a lecture on organized leisure—clubs, homes for young people, sport, camping and school colonies.

Plans Trip To Denmark

Several other important lectures include the cultural links between Sweden and the United States and a lecture on religion and religious instruction in Sweden. These lectures will be given following an excursion to Uppsala and visits to Uppsala University and the Old Town. The last tour in Stockholm, known for its beauty, will be the L. M. Ericsson Telephone Co., and its large social sector.

Thursday evening, July 29, the group will depart via night train for Copenhagen, Denmark. During the first several days of their arrival in Copenhagen, Miss Sundquist and the others are free to go sightseeing on their own. Introductory talks on the United States and Denmark will be presented Sunday, August 1.

In Denmark, unlike the other two countries, many of the evenings are also planned, not only the mornings and afternoons. The first day there, lectures on politics and economics of Denmark and the U. S., will be given, group work will be held in the afternoon and Danish and American music will be presented in the evening. The following day, social service in Denmark and the U. S. will be lectured on, with the afternoon group work on different aspects of society as related to the individual, and the evening's program consisting of documentary films on Denmark and the U. S.

An all day excursion to North Zealand, including a visit to Workers' High School at Roskilde or the international People's College at Elsinore and visits to Kronborg and Frederiksborg Castle, will be taken Wednesday, August 4. Several more days of lectures will follow and a farewell party will be given in honor of the touring group.

Sightseeing In Aalborg

Upon leaving Copenhagen, Miss Sundquist and the others will depart by boat to Aalborg, which has a population of 80,000. They will go sightseeing in Aalborg, including visits to a factory and the Aalborg Hall. An excursion to the North Sea also will be taken with sightseeing in Arhus, a town of 120,000 people and with much historical interest, and Aabenraa of 13,050 people.

Amsterdam will be reached Sunday, August 13, and this is the last city on foreign soil before the afternoon departure for New York for most of the members of the summer session group, but Vendela will continue to Finland for another month's visit and relaxation.

"My purpose for making the whole tour is to acquaint myself with Scandinavian culture and United States and these countries," she emphasized.

Dennis Greene Describes Experiences In Austria

GARDEN—Dennis Greene, the son of Mrs. Anna Greene of Garden, is vacationing at his parental home after returning to this country from Austria. Greene has been doing post-graduate work in philosophy at the University of Vienna for the past three semesters.

After receiving his B. A. degree from the University of Arizona in 1952 Greene returned to Austria where he had been during the Second World War.

Greene feels that many of the aspects of a foreign university are similar to colleges in this country. He did find some differences, however. All students stand when the professor enters the room and remain standing until he has removed his coat and taken his place at the lectern. Then the professor bids the students to be seated. The students rise again when the professor leaves the room.

Lower Living Standards

To show approval of a remark or agreement with a professor's theory the students pound on the desks with their fists. Disapproval is shown by rubbing their feet on the floor.

Greene found that the standard of living was lower than in this country but believed that the opera and other cultural advantages tended to offset the low standard.

The most popular season of the year in Austria proved to be the "Fasching"—the pre-lenten period which begins in the middle of January and continues until Ash Wednesday. During this time there are formal balls every evening which provide a setting for Strauss waltzes. The young people, however, currently are interested in jitterbugging.

One of the most famous of all Viennese churches, St. Stephen's was almost completely demolished during the war by fire. It has been reconstructed to its original form. Three types of architecture can be discerned in the construction—Roman, Gothic and Baroque.

Did Much Traveling

Every Sunday at one of the Vienna churches the Viennese Boy's Choir sings a high mass generally composed by Wolfgang Mozart, Johann Sebastian Bach or Joseph Hayden. The musical accompaniment for the masses is usually an entire orchestra. On special feast days operatic performers sing the high masses.

During his between-semester vacations Greene traveled throughout Europe. One such period was spent at an international work camp, on a farm, in Tumba (south of Stockholm), Sweden. At Tumba he worked with students from many different nations. He also took two trips to Spain and on one journey he was honored at a party given by the Spaniards.

Most of Greene's traveling was by hitch-hiking—a means common to students throughout Europe. It is the custom of the Viennese students to don their sportiest attire and carry packs on their backs when they start out. Much traveling is also done by youth groups in bicycle tours. Youth hostels have been provided to accommodate these student travelers for a minimum cost. Most hotels have cooking facilities.

Townsite Melts Near The Arctic Ocean

OTTAWA (AP)—A 10-man survey party is seeking a new site for the remote Arctic community of Ak-lavik on the MacKenzie River delta 70 miles south of the Arctic Ocean.

The 42-year-old settlement, largest in the Canadian Arctic, is in danger of sinking through melting permafrost. Summer heat, ground warmth created by buildings and excavations and roads turn the present permafrost terrain into a quagmire.

Lack of an adequate year-round water supply and sewage disposal system has created a serious health problem for the 400 whites, 250 Eskimos and 125 Indians who live in the community.

EXTRA! LATEST WORLD NEWS

Cigarette Firm Sued For Cancer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ira C. Lowe of Festus, Mo., has filed a new suit—this time in Circuit Court—against the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., over his lung cancer which he claims was caused by heavy cigarette smoking.

The suit for $500,000 damages was filed Thursday after the 39-year-old Lowe had withdrawn a similar suit in Federal Court Wednesday.

Lowe's original Federal Court suit was for $250,000 damages and was against the Reynolds firm and three other tobacco companies and a chain store.

The withdrawal action was made without prejudice, meaning the suit could be filed again.

Donald Siegel, Lowe's attorney, said he would not comment on the shift in courts nor on the change in defendants. Pat Mariani, operator of the Shop Ezy Market where Lowe claims he bought the Reynolds firm's cigarettes, is the other defendant in the new suit.

Lowe, when he filed the original suit, said he smoked more than two packs of cigarettes daily from 1930 to 1952 at which time his right lung was removed after cancer was found.

Queen Ducks Fast And Saves Her Head On Galloping Horse

ENGLAND (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II gave an exhibition of expert horsemanship at the Royal Ascot Race Course Friday—and probably saved her head.

She ducked just in time on a galloping horse to get under a telephone cable that had blown down at head level across the course.

A shout from the Duke of Edinburgh, who was riding out front, sounded the warning. The Queen laughed off the incident and called out to Lord Roseberry as she rode past:

"We were nearly all decapitated."

Cards Tangle With Merchants

Seeking their fifth victory in the Bay de Noc League, the Manistique Cardinals meet the Rapid River Merchants at 2 p. m. Sunday or the local diamond. The Cards are one-half game behind league-leading Cornell in second place.

The home team will not be at full strength again as Rudy Brandstrom, centerfield, is on vacation, and Marvin Frederick, second baseman, fractured his finger in the Gladstone game.

Don Carlson will be on the mound again for the Cardinals while James Cowman will be behind the plate. Sunday Carlson pitched the Cards to a 4-1 win over Fayette, giving up only four hits.

Rapid River will throw Waldon Johnson at the Cards while Sunde will catch. Last year Johnson pitched a no-hitter and gave the Cards a battle in their final game.

Will Represent Schoolcraft County At 4-H Club Meet

Joanne Arrowood and Avis Walker, Schoolcraft county and Helen Multila and Jonelle Knaus, Alger County will represent these counties at the 4-H Clothing Judging School at 4-H Club camp, Camp Shaw, Chatham, July 26-30. These girls were winners in contests held at the Court House, Manistique, on Monday and U. P. Experiment Station, Chatham, on Wednesday.

Twenty 4-H Club girls took part in the judging schools. Information on how to judge according to appearance, selection and workmanship was given in the morning and the girls did their judging in the afternoon. Cotton school dresses and wool skirts which had been constructed in 4-H clothing projects and cotton commercial blouses were the garments judged. Each girl placed the garments in classes and then gave her reasons for doing so.

Miss Dorothy Erler, Assistant State 4-H Club Leader, Marquette, Mrs. Hazel Crook, home demonstration agent and Clayton Reid, conducted the schools.

Restlessness Among Voters May Cause Upsets This Fall

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING (AP)—Politicians are wondering whether there is a restlessness among the voters this year which may cause some upsets.

They are having trouble putting their finger on what's happening—if anything—but things are not running quite true to form and that always bothers the boys whose livelihood and sport comes from guessing what the public is thinking.

No Interest Yet

Politicians are almost unanimous in reporting they find very little interest in the 1954 campaign yet. They say you can walk the length of main street or tour a whole star route and find most people unaware there will be elections this year or unaware of who is running.

Confirmation Rites At Zion Lutheran Sunday Evening

Confirmation and communion services at Zion Lutheran Church, which were originally scheduled for last Sunday morning, will be held at the church at 8 Sunday evening. Sunday School will be held at the usual hour on Sunday morning and the church board will meet as usual on Saturday evening.

Fishing Problems Studied By MUCC At Petoskey, Mich.

PETOSKEY (AP)—Michigan Conservation Club members turned to studies of Michigan fishing problems and prepared for the annual election.

Delegates went on record as favoring and urging the Legislature to:

- 1—Open all counties in Michigan to Sunday hunting. This would affect 13 southern counties now closed.
- 2—Hire 75 additional conservation officers which would cost about $450,000 a year.
- 3—Require a license for fishing Great Lakes waters and require wives to have a fishing license.
- 4—Reopen the lower tier of counties to ice fishing by non-residents.
- 5—Adopt a uniform gun law on county, state and national levels and adopt the National Rifle Assn. hunter safety course for young hunters.
- 6—Ban use of buckshot or rim-fire .22 calibre rifles in the taking of big game.
- 7—Establish a board to which persons losing hunting licenses for wounding or killing another human could appeal, providing the mishap was accidental and did not involve recklessness, carelessness, negligence or violation of law.
- 8—Make it a felony or high misdemeanor to steal or poison a dog.

Rep. Kenneth O. Trucks of Baldwin said he would introduce bills in the next Legislature to open every county in Michigan to Sunday hunting and for the Great Lakes and wives fishing license measures.

A number of opponents to the idea of opening southern counties felt that it would lead to an increase in the number of farms posted to hunting.

1954 ESKY CUBS — First home start of the 1954 Waubung League season for the Eskey Cubs will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 at the city diamond. The Cubs opened the campaign last week by tripping Carney with ease, 8-3, and will be shooting for win No. 2 against a strong Stephenson team. Pictured, front row,

Eskey Cubs Play Host To Stephenson Sunday

SUNDAY SCHEDULE
Stephenson at Escanaba
Gladstone at Bark River
Powers at Carney

The Eskey Cubs will make their first home stand of the 1954 Waubung League season decked out in new uniforms against Stephenson at the city diamond Sunday at 2.

Coach Al Ness has named right-hander John Berrigan as starting pitcher with Allen Erickson behind the plate. Joe Juetten will be at first base, Cliff O'Donnell at second, Bob Dubord at shortstop, Bucky Flath at third, Bob Christie in left field, Dave Viau in center and Denis McGinn in right.

Stephenson, deafening Waubung champion, will toss either Jim Strohl or Mike Aman at the Cubs. Aman was on the mound in the open, allowing four hits as Stephenson drubbed Bark River 13-1 last Sunday.

The Cubs opened the season with an 8-3 victory over Carney last weekend with Gary Paler, Bill Ringuette and Berrigan sharing mound duties.

Gladstone will travel to Bark River Sunday afternoon with both teams seeking their first win. Gladstone lost 9-1 to Powers and Bark River was Stephenson's victim in the openers.

The remaining game will have Carney host to Powers.

Portocarrero Hard To Say And Hard To Hit

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (P)—The Detroit Tigers found out, rather sadly, that Portocarrero is as difficult to hit as it is to pronounce.

Arnold Portocarrero, the tongue-twisting rookie of the Philadelphia A's, twisted the Tiger tails with a strong four-hitter Friday night in Briggs Stadium to give Philadelphia the opening game of a four-game series, 2-1.

Boone Tags Homer

The Tigers appeared as though they were ready to pour it on when Ray Boone hit a towering home run in the first inning.

But Portocarrero settled himself and permitted only three harmless hits the rest of the way. A home run by Bill Renna tied the score in the second for the A's, who then won it in the seventh on Renna's double and a single by Gus Zernial.

The loser, as might be expected, was Billy Hoelt, who has lost four times in Briggs Stadium this season without a win.

Sixth Defeat

"I'll bet I haven't won four games before the home folks," Billy The Kid said after the game. "I felt strong enough to go 10 more innings. I'd rather be knocked out in the first inning than lose a one-run game."

"That makes two one-run losses in a row," Hoelt continued. "Last Sunday these guys (the A's) scored two runs after two were out in the ninth to beat me. It's tough."

Hoelt allowed only five hits in 7 2-3 innings. He dropped his sixth game against three wins.

Rec League To Play At Little League Diamond

All Recreation League baseball activity will be confined to the Little League field near the water tower next week with all teams playing at least one game in addition to the regular practice sessions.

The Beginners division will operate as a farm system for Little League and four teams have been formed in that group: Lions, St. Joe, Rotary and Kiwanis. These teams will be issued uniforms next week.

The Junior group is made up of boys with some experience in organized ball and has four teams ready for action: Kiddie Korner, Budingers Refrigeration, Scott Dairy and Tommy's Lunch.

The Cadet league has two definite entries, Coca Cola and Delta Insurance. It is hoped that Breitenbach's Grocery and Liberty Loan will organize in the near future. Breitenbach's have had an entry for many years and won the championship the past several seasons.

The schedule for next week follows:

Monday, Baseball instructions for beginners at 9:30; Coca Cola vs. Delta Insurance at 1:15.

Tuesday, St. Joe Reserves vs. Kiwanis Reserves at 9:30; Rotary Reserves vs. Lion Reserves at 10:30; Budingers vs. Scott Dairy at 1:15.

Wednesday, Baseball instruction for beginners at 9:30; Baseball instructions for boys 11 to 14 at 1:15.

Thursday, St. Joe Reserves vs. Rotary Reserves at 9:30; Lion Reserves vs. Kiwanis Reserves at 10:30; Kiddie Korner vs. Budingers at 1:15.

Friday, Scott Dairy vs. Kiddie Korner at 9:30; Coca Cola vs. Delta Insurance at 1:15.

SUNDAY SCHEDULE

Loretto at Powers
Perronville at Niagara
Hardwood at Daggett

Powers will attempt to move up a notch in the Tri County League standings when it plays host to Loretto Sunday afternoon.

Powers enters the game with a record of two wins against a loss to the Niagara Badgers, suffered last Sunday by an 8-3 margin. The invading Loretto team is undefeated in three starts against Niagara, Perronville and Hardwood. The perfect mark ties Loretto with Bark River at the head of the standings.

A win for Loretto Sunday would put that club in sole possession of

Littler, Amateur Champ, Has Halfway Lead In Open

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (P)—Not since Bobby Jones' "grand slam" year of 1930 has one player been able to win both the open and amateur golf championships of the United States within the span of less than a year.

Gene Littler could be the next one to do it and today will tell whether the Californian has the stuff that makes a Jones—or a Ben Hogan—or whether he's just another promising young golfer.

Leads With 139

Littler won the amateur title at Oklahoma City last September. Now he's showing the way in the 72-hole open championship at the halfway point with a 70-69-139.

He's up against the long, cruel Baltusrol course that has virtually defied the efforts of the world's best golfers to shatter par for two days.

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

Softball attendance at Memorial Field does not seem to be near the peak it reached last season . . . A number of factors probably account for the lag in fans . . . Poor spring weather handicapped early attempts to schedule games, the season was delayed from the originally scheduled opener, television viewers are more abundant and cold nights have been the rule rather than the exception thus far this season.

But one factor certainly has not led to decreased interest . . . That is the caliber of softball being played and the even balance at the top of the league . . . The American League this year appears to be more evenly-balanced than for some time . . . All teams are stronger and it's hard to say who will beat who on any given night . . . Take the Dells for instance.

Manager Bob Jensen's team this week put the blocks to two of the stronger entries, the Merchants and Northland Bread . . . Northland had previously tripped the Dells team and was undefeated until running into Don Paulin and Co. Monday night . . . Next came the undefeated and league-leading Merchants who were bombed, 14-4, Thursday night . . . The Dells, with Paulin throwing effective ball, could grab the plum this year . . . They've got just the right mixture of young players and veterans to go all the way.

The Merchants are fielding a potent lineup with the addition of the Lancours and Bob Lehoullier to last year's top-notch club . . . The new Northland team is sound in most positions but has a pitching problem with its one-man mound staff of Ken Dufresne . . . Harnischfeger, on the other hand, at last report had four twirlers in the fold, John Pieropon, Les Kamin, Vern Johnson and Pat Moran.

Paper Mill does not appear to have the personnel for a championship drive but the Millers have won two and gave the Merchants and Harnischfeger trouble this week . . . Clairmont Transfer and Rapid River lack the over-all strength of the other league teams but can cause trouble at times.

Merchants And Northland Meet In Feature Game On Wednesday

Team	W	L
Merchants	5	1
Northland Bread	4	1
Dells Supper Club	4	1
Harnischfeger	3	3
Paper Mill	2	5
Clairmont Transfer	1	3
Rapid River	1	6

Schedule
TONIGHT—P & M vs. Westbys at 7:15; Anderson Brothers vs. Eagles at 8:30.

SUNDAY — Pfeiffers of Marquette vs. Dells at 7:15; Pfeiffers of Marquette vs. Merchants at 8:30.

MONDAY—P & M Juniors vs. Eagles at 7:15; Rapid River vs. Paper Mill at 8:30.

TUESDAY — Clairmont Oldtimers vs. Paper Mill Oldtimers at 7:15; Clairmont Transfer vs. Dells at 8:30; St. Thomas vs. Delta Frame at Flat Rock.

WEDNESDAY — Kesslers vs. Westbys at 7:15; Merchants vs. Northland Bread at 8:30; P & M Juniors vs. Anderson Brothers at Webster.

THURSDAY—Clairmont Transfer vs. Northland Bread at 7:15; Harnischfeger vs. Dells at 8:30; Westbys vs. Indees at Dock; Kesslers vs. Eagles at Webster; Merchants vs. Rapid River at Rapid River.

FRIDAY—St. Thomas vs. Paper Mill Oldtimers at 7:15; Delta Frame vs. Clairmont Oldtimers at 8:30.

SATURDAY — Anderson Brothers vs. Indees at Memorial Field at 7:15.

The long-awaited clash between the powerful Merchants and Northland Bread will take place Wednesday night at Memorial Field at 8:30. Most of the Northland team played for the Merchants last season and this first meeting should mark the beginning of a natural rivalry.

The old White Birch battery of Leo Lancour and Harry Lancour will do the heavy work for the Merchants. Bobby Anderson will be on first base, Scoops McDonald on second, Ed Gauthier at short and Mickey Kuchenberg on third. Bob Lehoullier will be in left field, Franny Lancour in center and Kippy Derouin in right.

Northland Bread will take the field with last year's Merchant's battery—Ken Dufresne pitching to Angie Hirn. Don Scott will be on first base, Clem Sharkey at second, Tom Dufour at third, Ray Ebli, Tom St. Germain and Bob Sendenburgh will patrol the outfield.

Thursday night's feature game at Memorial Field between the Dells and Harnischfeger also promises to be interesting. With Don Paulin back in form the Dells have been moving up fast and expect to challenge the leaders soon. Harnischfeger has already dropped three games and another loss would put a definite chill on their hopes for another American League championship.

The National and Oldtimers leagues got under way this week and the teams in both circuits seem to be well balanced.

Gladstone Entertains Cooks In Bay de Noc

SUNDAY SCHEDULE
Cornell at Gladstone
Cooks at Garden
Fayette at Trenary
Rapid River at Manistique

The Gladstone Redskins, who tuned up this week with a 4-4 exhibition tie with the Bark River Barks of the Tri County League, will be shooting for their second victory in the Bay de Noc circuit in a home stand against Cooks Sunday afternoon.

Gladstone dropped the first two starts of the season to Garden and Manistique and then came back to decision Trenary 6-2. Last week's game against Cornell was rained out.

The Redskins will have a chance to narrow the gap on the league leaders by winning Sunday. Cooks stands in a three-way tie for second place with Manistique and Garden, while Gladstone is next in the list at 1-2. The trio in the knot have won three and lost one. League leading Cornell (3-0) will play at Garden while winless Rapid River invades the Manistique diamond. In the remaining game, Fayette will travel to Trenary.

Marquette Pfeiffers In Doubleheader Here

One of the best teams in the Upper Peninsula, Pfeiffers Beer of Marquette, will invade Escanaba Sunday night to play a doubleheader against the first and second place teams of the American softball league, Merchants and Dells. Pfeiffers will meet the Dells in the opener at 7:15, and take on the Merchants in the finale at 8:45.

The visiting Marquette nine is leading the Major league in their city and boasts an overall record of 11 straight wins in league games and exhibition contests. One of their victories was a sparkling 3 to 0 shutout over the Dells two weeks ago.

The visitors will probably start Jim Trombly in the first game against the Dells and save big Tom Kirby for the Merchants. Trombly has picked up three of their eleven wins and Kirby has hurled eight straight victories without a defeat.

In the first game, the Dells will throw Don Paulin, their ace left-hander, against the visiting club in an effort to even things up for the season. Bud Kenneally will catch, Ding DeGrand will be on first, Keith Morin at second, Pete Kutches at short and Wally Flath on third. Barney Millette will play left field, Bud Noel will be in center and Byron Lindstrom will be in right.

The Merchants will probably start Leo or Franny Lancour with Harry Lancour behind the plate. Bobby Anderson will be on first, Scoops McDonald at second, Ed Gauthier at short and Mickey Kuchenberg on third. Bob Lehoullier will patrol left field, with Bob Krohmer or Franny Lancour in center, and Kippy Derouin in right.

Pfeiffers will field about the same team that placed second in the U. P. Class A tournament here in 1952. The Merchants defeated them for the U. P. title that year but Pfeiffers eliminated them from the state tournament in Ludington when they met in the semi-finals. Tomorrow's night's battle between these two good ball clubs will be a renewal of a natural rivalry that began three years ago.

The Yankees manager made the statement before his club beat the Sox 7-6 Friday night.

Meantime, the Indians were beating Boston, 2-0 to take a four-game edge over both the Sox and the Yanks for the American League lead.

"It's kinda silly, ain't it," asked Casey. "Here we are beatin' each other brains out and what's Al Lopez doing over there against Boston? Winning his how-many-is-it straight?"

"Nine?" and how many has he lost? Seven?

"Well, now, we've beat them four times and they've beat us four times. You fellows (the Sox) have beat them five times and they beat you three times.

"I know they've lost 17 games—haven't they? That means the two of us have had to win more than half the games those guys have lost doesn't it?"

"I'm wondering where we're going to get some help."

Orlando Zulueta Gets Nod Over Gonzales

NEW YORK (P)—Orlando Zulueta, the clever Cuban lightweight with the talented left hand, today was biding his time waiting for Paddy DeMarco and Jimmy Carter to get on with their title fight, after evening an old score with Johnny Gonzales.

Nobody got hurt. There were no knockdowns, no solid punching but a fine display of boxing skill and defensive work. Zulueta remained the No. 2 lightweight contender, but Gonzales probably lost his No. 5 rating by the defeat.

Jim Kennedys Win Mixed Golf Event

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kennedy won the first mixed two-ball foursome held yesterday at the Escanaba Golf Club with a 50-21—29.

Fred Pollak and Mrs. William LeMire were second with 44-8—36, also low gross for the day, and Dr. William LeMire and Mrs. Jean Smith were third with 46-9—37.

SIGN YOUNGSTERS
HOLLAND (P)—The Boston Red Sox have signed Bob Van Dyke, Holland High School third baseman, to a minor league contract. Van Dyke, who hit .417 this season, will report to Corning, N. Y., in the PONY League next season.

FATHER DIES
OAKLAND, Calif. (P)—Ernest G. Griff Webb, father of Del Webb co-owner of the New York Yankees baseball team, died Friday night while watching a ball game on television at his North Hollywood home. He was 80.

Stock Car Racing Changed To Saturday

The regular weekly stock car racing program at the state fairgrounds track will not be held Tuesday night as the Escanaba Racing Association announced a change in its schedule.

Starting next Saturday, June 26 the weekly races will be held at the fairgrounds on Saturday night throughout the remainder of the summer season.

Hurlers Get Aching Backs Bowing After Sharp Games

By BEN PHEGAR (Associated Press Writer)

If some of the major league's best pitchers turned up with aching backs today they had a good excuse.

They'd been busy taking bows for Friday night's games when in every active park in the two circuits there was at least one hurler who had covered himself with glory.

At the Polo Grounds it was Harvey Haddix of the St. Louis Cardinals. The pint-sized lefthander snapped the New York Giants' six-game winning streak with his third straight shutout, 5-0. In winning his ninth consecutive game Haddix ran his string of scoreless innings to 32, longest in the majors this season. He also increased his top-ranking strikeout total by 7 to 86 and his overall record to 11-3. Nobody else has won as many as 10. Stan Musial hit his 22nd home run, tops in both leagues.

Handicuffs Braves
At Forbes Field Vern Law, one of the National League's brightest rookies, allowed Milwaukee only three singles and won the game 2-1 for Pittsburgh with a bases-loaded single in the last of the ninth. Warren Spahn, Law's mound foe, was no slouch, giving only five singles.

Corky Valentine, another rookie, outduelled Curt Simmons as Cincinnati shaded Philadelphia 2-1. Simmons, the victim of the Phillies' weak hitting in his last two outings, drove in the only run for the Redlegs as Valentine carefully spaced seven safeties.

The joy in Flatbush came from Don Newcombe's first complete game since May 7. The big right-hander turned back Chicago 6-3 as the Dodgers chipped the Giants' league lead to a single game. Newcombe struck out eight, all in the last six innings. Gil Hodges homered twice.

Garcia Wins 9th
The National League had no monopoly on the outstanding performances by pitchers.

In the American League Cleveland beat Boston 2-0, New York shaded Chicago 7-6, Philadelphia edged Detroit 2-1 and Washington outlasted Baltimore 7-5 in 13 innings.

And here's how the pitchers fared in the junior circuit:

Mike Garcia of the Indians turned back the Red Sox on four singles for his ninth victory, his club's ninth straight triumph and the Indians' ninth success in nine meetings with Boston this year.

The only solace for the Red Sox was the first pitching appearance since April 24 of Mel Parnell. The lefthander, recovering from a wrist fracture, pitched one inning in relief and retired the Indians in order.

At Comiskey Park in Chicago a pitcher starred in a different role. Bob Grim, called in as a relief man in the fifth, won the game with his hitting. He singled home two Yankees first in the sixth and hit his first major league home run with one aboard in the eighth.

Porterfield Ones 13
Grim needed help from Johnny Sain in the ninth. Phil Cavarretta reached him for a pinch hit home run and Carl Sawatski bashed a pinch hit double. Singles by Nelson Fox, his fourth hit, and Ferris Fain produced one more run but George Kell grounded out with the tying run on third.

It was the seventh time in nine games the White Sox have lost to New York and the fifth time they've lost to the Yankees by a single run.

At Briggs Stadium in Detroit young Arnold Portocarrero checked the Tigers on four hits and won in complete command after Ray Boone's first inning home run. Only a week ago the Tigers had beaten the rookie 16-5.

In Baltimore Bob Porterfield of the Senators stayed 13 innings for his eighth victory. The Orioles battered him for 16 hits but he remained in control. Jim Bushby singled home the two winning runs in the 13th. Mickey Vernon hit safely his first five times at bat.

Legion Post At Hermansville Plans July 4 Festival

HERMANVILLE — The Floriano Legion Post of Hermansville met in the Legion Club rooms Thursday evening to complete plans for the gala celebration in the community on July 5. This is the community's big homecoming event and people turn out this day to see their friends who return to their former town for the big week end.

Commander Julius Haelterman has named various committees and those committees are hard at work getting all final plans ready. The post plans to have a large parade and will feature the High School Band during the day. There will be races for the children. The Legion Junior Baseball team will play in the afternoon and a large fireworks display will complete the days activities at the ball grounds. They will be stands on the main street throughout the day.

The July 5th celebration will mark the end of an extensive Legion year of programs and service work. This year saw the post reach an all time membership of almost 90 members. Last fall the post witnessed its first kickoff breakfast for membership held in the Legion club rooms. The post received a state and national citation for membership.

An auxiliary unit of the Floriano Post was formed last fall and has over 20 members. Mrs. Sophie Andrews is the unit president. They have an attendance at every meeting of 90 per cent. Also on Armistice Day the Auxiliary and Legion had its first joint banquet and it is going to be an annual affair. Over 60 persons attended the dinner.

Among other programs of the Legion include the annual Christmas program for the youth of the township and last year 400 bags of candy were distributed to the children. The post is active in child welfare work. This year as in the past, the post observed Memorial Day with services at Faithorn and Hermansville. Nearly 30 veterans of both wars participated in those services.

The post also sponsors a Boy Scout troop, one of the finest in the district.

A new program for the Floriano Post in the Legion Junior Baseball program. George Mauli is the manager and is seeking games with out of town teams. The post has over $200 invested in uniforms and equipment.

Other officers include, Howard LaCasse, first vice commander, Alex Framarin is the chaplain, William Eisensohn, service officer, Reuben J. Marcoe finance officer, a post he has held since the post was organized. Frank Urick, Frank Rodman, Fred Marchatere and Alex Rramarin comprise the executive committee.

Clifford Gustafson, a veteran of New Guinea, Guadalcanal, and the Philippines with 36 months of overseas duty heads the list of new officers that will be installed in July. Gustafson is the new commander.

Commander Julius Haelterman will head the Hermansville delegation to the UP Legion Convention at Calumet in July.

Heavy U. S. Bombers To Be Moved From Japan To Guam Base

TOKYO (AP)—The Air Force has shifted its heavy bombers in the Far East to the Strategic Air Command—carrier of atomic weapons—and said the big planes would be moved from Japan to Guam.

The Air Force said a wing of four-engine B50s would be flown to Guam for training.

B29s of the Far East Air Forces now based in Japan will be flown to Guam and put under control of SAC, the Air Force said. Actual transfer of the B29s now at Yokota Air Base near here will begin soon.

Eventually, SAC will replace the B29s with B50s and other aircraft. The Superforts which dropped the atom bombs on Japan and bombed North Korea for 37 months are headed for retirement.

Electric generators have been provided as attachments to power lawn mowers and gardening machines by some manufacturers for use when normal electric power is disrupted by storms or other causes.

STREET ROD

by Henry Gregor Felsen

XXXVI
He hit the gas pedal, but not too hard. He didn't want to jump the coupe and wake Sharon. If she woke she'd stop him, and after all, if he'd won anything with all his hard work, he'd won the right to beat Link home on this particular night. And he would!

Ricky licked his lips and took a fresh grip on the steering wheel. He could feel the muscles in his face grow taut as he made his decision. He had more power and speed than ever before, and Link was asking for it. The one thing that stood between him and happiness, and tonight he would chase that shadow too. It has to be, it was fated. Everything was going his way now. All the omens were good. It was the night, with the guys there to see it, to run the wheels off Link for once and for all. He'd never have to do it again.

Seventy to 80. Pink lightning on the road, smooth as cream. Link stuck with him doggedly. Eighty-five. A tight grin thinned Ricky's lips. He bent over his wheel slightly, every sense alert. "You won't lead this parade home," Ricky muttered under his breath as though Link were with him. "Not this parade."

He knew Link's plan. To let Ricky stay ahead, breaking the path through the night until they were around the last S-turn. And then, with victory in sight, to let Ricky lead down the hill and across the bridge—and pass him.

Ninety. Sharon stirred slightly. Ricky cast a quick, anxious look in her direction. If she woke now . . . But she sighed and turned her head and slept again, more deeply. He relaxed. If she only knew . . . But it had to be. Just once he had to humiliate Link. Just once.

He stopped looking at his speedometer as his speed increased. He was going too fast to do anything but watch the road every second.

He was pulling away. He wanted to shout and whoop as he saw Link's lights slowly fall back. Link was eating his smoke now. And it was bitter. He could just see Link's face looking sour as a lemon.

He had Link whipped! Link couldn't stay with him! Now to pour it on!

He could have slacked off, staying just ahead, teasing with his lights, but he was going to give it to Link good.

He went into the first of the S-turns 15 miles an hour faster than he'd ever dared before. And the little coupe stuck like glue. No pull, no drift, no wheel fight, no sway. Just the torque he needed to send him around with just a faint squeal from the tires. But the coupe snuggled down to the road and held on and he knew he was pulling away from Link with every turn of the wheel.

On the way out of the turn Ricky pushed his foot to the floor. He made it round with rubber screaming. There were the lights of town, three miles away. Here was his victorious return. Tonight no one would lead him home!

On the way out of the turn Ricky pushed his foot to the floor. He made it round with rubber screaming. There were the lights of town, three miles away. Here was his victorious return. Tonight no one would lead him home!

Down the hill with the engine screaming like a dive bomber, the tach bouncing like mad. Down, down, down . . . all the way!

Sharon awakened suddenly as they lurched out of the turn. She heard the shrill roar of the engine, felt the terrific speed. Half-awake she looked at Ricky, beginning to understand the noise, the vibration, the tense, wild look on his face.

She meant to speak his name, but it came out a sleepy moan. He sensed she was moving and turned to look at her. Halfway down the hill, moving faster than he had ever traveled before, steering a road that looked like a kitten and drove like a bomb.

Halfway down the hill, a meteor of speed and noise, winding all the way up as it bettered 100 . . .

Halfway down the hill, wide open, drifting toward the center of the road. Ricky eased the wheel back to the right. The drift to the left continued.

The tense smile became a look of horror. He wanted to scream but there was no time for the sound to rise from his throat. He was still pulling the wheel to the right, his foot on the gas, when the coupe left the road.

The rough shoulder tossed the front end high. The pink coupe roared into the air, twisting in agony. That first surge tore Ricky from the wheel. His head met Sharon's with a bone-splintering crunch.

They were unconscious when the coupe hit on its nose, bounced high, cleared the low end of the bridge and dropped into the black water top-first. Before the splash was over the little car sank out of sight, its copper-colored wire wheels turning slowly as they sank, like little waterwheels.

The coupe was still sinking when Link roared around the last S-turn in his convertible, hurling his car forward with a raging foot. As he started down the hill with the engine wide open he looked for Ricky's taillights ahead. There were no lights.

Link couldn't believe that Ricky was across the flat. It couldn't be . . . unless Ricky had a full-race Merc under his hood.

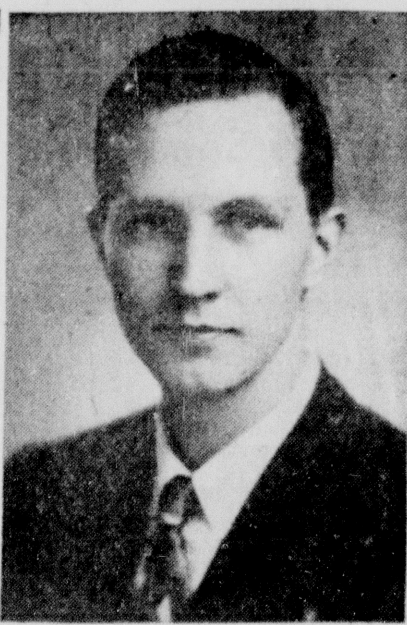

Link roared across the bridge, his echo rolling over the muddy water that swirled over the little coupe. He didn't know where Ricky was, but he wouldn't give up. Gas pedal to the floor he raced on as fast as his convertible would travel. He didn't care what Rick had. He'd catch up with him yet!

Ham Parcel Turns Out To Be Store's Cash

Omaha (AP) — Mrs. Joseph O. Hebenstreit was thinking of a boiled ham sandwich when she opened a meat package from her grocery store.

What she found in the package was the store's bank deposit. How the bundle of checks and $31 cash got wrapped as boiled ham nobody knows—but anyway Mrs. Hebenstreit ate steak instead of boiled ham. The grocer gave her two choice steaks as a reward for returning the money.
